

David Shoresh is strategic planner at the Israeli National Cyber Directorate, responsible for strategic assessment, policy setting on national cyber security affairs and the INCD multi-year plan.

He previously served in the IDF General Staff (J5), where he was involved in a wide range of politico-military issues, operational planning and force development. Prior to that he was a legal advisor in the IDF Military Advocate General Corp. He has published on strategy and technology.