

Dennis-Kenji Kipker is Research Managing Director at the Institute for Information, Health and Medical Law (IGMR) in Bremen, and has been a Visiting Research Fellow at the Graduate School of Law at Waseda University in Tokyo/Japan in 2017, and in 2018, Visiting Professor at the Peoples' Friendship University of Russia in Moscow in the field of IT-Security and Data Protection Law as well as the Civil

Law of Germany.

The research interests of Dr. Kipker focus on the interface between law and technology, particularly on international IT Security Law, Data Protection Law, and Intelligence Agency Law. Apart from his work at the IGMR, Kipker is also a co-opted member of the DFG Graduate College 1681 "Privacy" at the University of Passau, Board Member of the European Academy for Freedom of Information and Data Protection (EAID) in Berlin and member of the standardisation committee VDE/AK 716.0.1 "Home and Building Electronic Systems (HBES) - IT-Security and Dataprotection - Requirements" on technical data protection.

Kipker teaches Product Liability Law at the University of Applied Sciences Bremerhaven and works as a lecturer for IT Security and Data Protection at the Bremen University of Applied Sciences, the University of Bremen (nominated for the Berninghausen-Award 2017 for excellent teaching) and the Baden-Wuerttemberg Cooperative State University in Stuttgart.

Furthermore, Dr. Kipker acts as a consultant for the Human Brain Project and the Article 29 Data Protection Working Party of the European Commission as well as for the United Nations Interregional Crime and Justice Research Institute (unicri). He also provides expert reports for several institutions, such as for the German Federal Ministry of Defence in questions of IT Security and for the Max Planck Society (MPG) in Data Protection matters.