

Gal is a Computer Science PhD candidate at the Weizmann Institute of Science. Her research is aimed at making machine learning methods more reliable in human-facing applications, with a focus on formally defining and promoting fairness and non-discrimination.