

Maurice Sunkin is Professor of Public Law and Socio Legal Studies at the University of Essex. He Co Directs the ESRC Human Rights Big Data and New Technologies Project and chairs the UK Administrative Justice Institute, both based at Essex. He is the General Editor of Public Law and an Associate Member of Landmark Chambers, London. As well as the human rights implications of big data and new technologies and administrative justice, his research interests concern the use and effects of judicial review. He has served as Legal Adviser to the House of Lords Select Committee on the Constitution and has been a Trustee of the Public Law Project. In 2018 he was appointed QC honoris causa.