

Yoni Har Carmel, University of Haifa

Yoni Har Carmel is a PhD student at the Haifa Center for Law and Technology, writing his dissertation under the supervision of Prof. Niva Elkin-Koren (Haifa Faculty of Law) and Prof. Michal Yerushalmy (the Institute of Research and Development of Alternatives in Education).

Har Carmel investigates the interactions between law, education and technology in the digital age from legal and pedagogical perspectives. In addition to practicing and studying law, Har Carmel is a former high school teacher in the “Teach for Israel” program, the aim of which is to overcome system-based inequality in education.
